Wedding costumes

The costume worn by the bride during the San San Kudo (“three-times-three exchange” of nuptial cups between the bride and groom during a wedding ceremony), were traditionally prepared by the family of the bride. The parents of the bride gifted the costume to their beloved daughter in praying for her happiness as she enters a new chapter in her life. In addition, the parents of the bride also presented a bridal trousseau to their daughter, which included various items that would be necessary for newly-married life. The most important of these is the costume that is worn by the bride during the wedding ceremony.
